With 24-7, you can increase your profit levels by controlling daily costs and revenues and eliminating duplication work, freeing managers to spend more time generating sales and managing performance.

Inventory Control System: Inventory control is the combination of tools, procedures and reports to ensure that inventory is used as intended.

Inventory Control Elements

- Detailed standards for purchasing and production
- Written procedures for each of the six inventory stages
- Methods for counting and valuing inventory
- Ongoing training and staff feedback
- Regular monitoring and enforcement of execution
- Regular inspection of products and inventory counting
- Regular performance evaluations comparing actual use with expected use

Labor Control System: Attain maximum efficiency of staff without compromising service. To control labor, a restaurant must accomplish three tasks:

- Schedule effectively for each day's business level
- Manage each shift to productively utilize staff and to avoid unnecessary costs
- Maintain a well-trained staff with minimal turnover

Restaurant Sales Control: Two goals of sales control – Revenue Control and Effective Selling

Revenue Control ensures that customer orders result in appropriate revenue.

A properly set up and maintained POS is a great revenue control tool. Daily sales reports and analysis highlight problems.

- POS Price Audit
- Duplicate Menu Items
- Sales Tax Audit: ensure correct sales tax is applied
- Daily Reconciliation
- Discount and Comp Summary

Effective Selling allows you to maximize profit by pricing properly and promoting your menu.
